DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to Applicant's amendment filed June 25, 2008. Claims 1 and 41 have been amended. Claim 45 has been canceled. Claims 1-44 and 46-83 are currently pending in this case. Claims 1-13 and 37-44 are under examination.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 41, as currently amended have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-13 and 37-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hendricks et al (US 5,659,250) in view of Gaske et al (EP 1 100 266 A2).

5. Regarding claim 1 and 42 –

6. Hendricks discloses a system for rendering media content (e.g. abs) comprising: a first platform for storing media content, wherein the media content comprises an unrenderable (e.g. encrypted) state when received by the first platform (e.g. fig 3, 202 and 220; column/line 8/57-9/42; column 10, lines 36-40);

a second platform communicatively coupled with the first platform for rendering the stored media content (e.g. fig 3, 222);

the first and second platforms cooperatively providing an interface for purchasing a right to render the stored media content at least one time (e.g. fig 3, 900); and at least one of the first platform and the second platform being operable to convert the stored media content to a renderable state upon the purchase of the right to render. (e.g. col 10 ln 57-67).

7. Hendricks does not disclose wherein the media content is stored at the subscriber location where it is later made renderable either through payment or other means. Gaske, however, does, at, e.g. fig 3 showing a set top box equipped for storing or caching encrypted programming for later playback. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine the teachings of Hendricks and Gaske since both are in the field of rendering media content and in order to provide for local storage of media in the event of network failure while preserving security.

8. Regarding claim 2 –

9. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1 further comprising: a distribution server connected to at least one of the first and second platforms and to at least one content source, the distribution server being operable to receive requests for content and to responsively retrieve content from the content sources (e.g. col 11 ln 20-45).

10. Regarding claim 3 –

11. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1 further comprising: a distribution server connected to at least one of the first and second platforms and to at least one Content source (e.g. fig 2, 212), the distribution server being operable to track the usage of the content. (e.g. col 11 ln 47-55).

12. Regarding claim 4 –

13. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1 further comprising: a distribution server connected to at least one of the first and second platforms and to at least one content source, the distribution server being operable to track the payment of the content. (e.g. col 11 ln 47-55).

14. Regarding claim 5 –

15. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1 further comprising: distribution server connected to at least one of the first and second platforms and to at least one content source, the distribution server being operable to track the commerce of the content. (e.g. col 11 ln 47-55).

16. Regarding claim 6 –

17. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1, wherein the first platform comprises a digital video recorder device that includes a storage device for storing the media content. (e.g. col 10 ln 57-67).

18. Regarding claim 7 –

19. Hendricks does not directly disclose a storage device specifically comprising a hard disk. Official Notice is taken having a storage device comprising a hard disk drive is old and well-known. Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine Hendricks with such a storage device given how common, economical, easy to find and use such hard disk drives are.

20. Regarding claim 8 –

21. Hendricks discloses as discussed above but Hendricks does not specifically disclose wherein the first platform comprises a personal computer that includes a storage device for storing the media content. However, Official Notice is taken that the functions of a set top terminal are functions that old and well known to be performed by a personal computer. Thus, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a personal computer act as set-top terminal since this would make integral in one unit which might otherwise be done in two devices. Moreover, the resulting combination is predictable and would allow for recording of content on the computer.

22. Regarding claims 9-10 –

23. Hendricks does not specifically disclose the limitations of claims 9 and 10. However, Official Notice is taken that a storage device comprising an optical storage device, such as a digital versatile disk (DVD) drive is old and well-known. Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine Hendricks with such a storage device given how common, economical, easy to find and use such DVD's are.

24. Regarding claim 11 –

25. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1, wherein the unrenderable state comprises a first level of encryption that protects the media content from unauthorized rendering. (e.g. col 11 ln 20-45).

26. Regarding claim 12 –

27. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 11, wherein the media content is contained in a broadcast signal and the unrenderable state comprises a second level of encryption that protects the media content from unauthorized reception and storage. (e.g. col 9 ln 18-40).

28. Regarding claim 13 –

29. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 12, wherein the broadcast is one of an over-the-air broadcast, a cable broadcast, an Internet broadcast and a satellite broadcast, and receiver therefor (e.g. col 1 ln 28-32).

30. Regarding claim 37 –

31. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1, wherein the media content is stored on the first platform in a compressed format. (e.g. col 11 ln 20-45).

32. Regarding claims 38-39 –

33. Hendricks does not specifically disclose the various MPEG standards and layers thereof. However, Hendricks does contemplate using MPEG compressions standards generally. (e.g. col 6 ln 44-54, col 8 ln 23-38, col 9 ln 35-45, col 13 ln 56-61, col 14 ln 48-65). It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include various MPEG standards and layers thereof for the compressed format.

34. Regarding claim 40 –

35. Hendricks discloses the system of claim 1, wherein the first platform comprises: a digital video recorder having a storage device for retaining, at least a portion, of the media content; (e.g. col 11 ln 20-45).

a personal computer operatively coupled with the digital video recorder, wherein the personal computer provides (e.g. col 13 ln 37-46) for:

the purchase of the right to render the media content; management of rendering of the media content including:

enforcing digital rights associated with the media content; and controlling rendering of the media content in correspondence with terms of the purchase. (e.g. col 15 ln 20-50)

36. Regarding claims 42, 43, and 44 –

37. Hendricks discloses wherein the broadcast is one of an over-the-air broadcast, a cable broadcast, an Internet broadcast and a satellite broadcast, and receiver therefor (e.g. col 1 ln 28-32).

38. Examiner's note: Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may be applied as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant, in preparing the responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.

Conclusion

39. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
